

STRIPPERCOIN PASTYPAPER

Introduction

StripperCoin was first minted April 4/4/2021 - it started as a hilarious idea between coworkers in an IT office based around what they saw as absurdities in crypto, and after a conversation with the spouse solidified in to an idea called StripperCoin- where in a pandemic-ridden world, strippers could still safely, and non-degradingly receive funds from a client. Although it was a joke at its inception - StripperCoin now exists in the world as a real token. Real people in the world own it aside from the creator. Sometimes the best way to see if something comes to fruition is to release it to the world and see what reflects back.

Well, since we've started to see Cardano pick up some steam with exchanges coming online, and our faucet getting some hits that we would finally release our very own PastyPaper, and tell the world our vision for this coin. Is it a memecoin? Yes. Can it become more? Yes - and we'll outline how it could function below.

We make no promise of future value, or development beyond this pastypaper. If there is interest beyond the faucet we're open to seeing where this can be taken. See our Contact Us area for how to reach out.

Tech Bits

Since Cardano is the underlying technology - there really isn't much to the tech bits. Cardano is building the rails of the future financial system, and we want to be on board the train with Hoskinson. Hopefully he'll come to our train car for a little dance. ON THE HOUSE HOSK!

If you're here, you probably already know about Cardano... and you can skip to the next section. For the uninitiated... Cardano is a Proof of Stake blockchain where the validators on the chain are not miners, but stake pool operators. These Stake Pool Operators run nodes which validate and confirm every transaction on the blockchain. It is much more energy efficient than other crypto currencies like BitCoin and Ethereum. The overall vision of the Cardano founder, Charles Hoskinson is to change the world. We're with him on that journey!

Tokenomics

When StripperCoin was first minted in April, 2021 - only 15 million were created. 100% of them were in the creator's wallet. Since then, the total supply has grown to 69 million, and the original creator only retains 8% of the total supply.

StripperCoin Tokenomics

8% - StripperCoin Creator

Will never dump on the community, and will only cash out coins to further StripperCoin's goals. Most of this will be used for promotion and for further development.

3% - StripperCoin Ambassadors

Carved out early in the life of StripperCoin, it was given to a trusted ambassadors who will use the reserves to further the future of StripperCoin.

4% - Developers

Given to the developer at launch of fountain

80% - Public Token Distribution

Available at strippercoin.io

There are only 69,000,000 StripperCoin in existence. The policy is locked so no more will EVER be minted or burned.

How does StripperCoin work?

We envision that StripperCoin could eventually work as a touchless, clean and non-degrading alternative to strip club money. Those who are familiar will know, many strip clubs force you to buy a stash of their in-house money to give to the girls as payment. Even if it's real cash, money is often folded in degrading ways and flung at women dancing. We envision that StripperCoin could be the new form of the in-house money. Patrons could pay with the tap, or shake of a digital wallet. Partnered strip clubs could utilize StripperCoin and be listed in the StripperCoin app and on the website, and patrons could pay using an app on their phone, or their wallet, to a designated stripper using a QR code, or other pre-programmed methods. Yes, we even have a vision for the metaverse. We also foresee partnerships with cam sites and porn sites in the future.

How much of this exists now?

Since StripperCoin was minted light heartedly, and the faucet opened

strippercoin.io quietly - only the idea and 69 million tokens exist right now. In the crypto space, an idea can become something big overnight - so we're along for the ride on this wild rollercoaster. If you want to work with us, or take this to new places - reach out to us!

Contact us

support@strippercoin.io

Twitter.com/StripperCoin